Part B: Advertising Examples

Companies spend millions of dollars each year creating advertisements to entice consumer's into buying or using their products and services. Survey the media (TV, radio, and newspapers) to find examples of each technique described below.

The Good Old Days

Advertisers encourage consumers to buy products that will remind them of the "good old days". Times when food was homemade, life was simple, and products were built to last.

Bandwagon

Advertisements that encourage consumers to buy quickly so that they do not get left out!
Who wants to be the only one in the neighborhood without the latest gadget?

Humor

People remember ads that makes them laugh.
Advertisers hope consumers will associate their product with happy, positive thoughts.

Fantasy

These ads feature famous people (actors, actresses, sports stars, superheros) whom consumers associate with the "best in life".

Senses

Advertisements that use delicious food, relaxing scenery, and soothing sounds to entice us to buy the product.

Scientific or Mathematical

Advertisements that use statistics or facts to encourage consumers to buy the product.

Challenge: Are there other advertisements that do not fit into these categories? If yes, create a new category (or two) to describe these advertisements.
